Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D. C.

Dear Bill:

As you know, Ed O'Malley appeared before the President's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board (PFIAB), at their request, on November 11, 1982, to discuss the progress being made by the Interagency Group - Counter-intelligence (IG-CI).

25X1

It is Ed's view that, based on the discussions he had with PFIAB on these recommendations, the members are in favor of action by the Reagan Administration.

One member said that he would favor a national public debate on these issues so that the Administration would have a sense of the public attitude regarding them prior to making a decision. Ed disagreed with this suggestion, as these issues pose serious foreign policy questions, are classified and very sensitive, and a discussion of them in public would also give a clue to our adversaries about the strengths and weaknesses of U.S. counter-intelligence. Neither Ed nor I have heard anything further regarding this suggestion.

I look forward to meeting with you at the Senior Interagency Group - Intelligence (SIG-I) in the near future regarding the recommendations of the IG-CI.

Sincerely,

William H. Webster
